

Frame Tents

A FRAME tent is free standing, and can be located on any surface including; asphalt, a deck, concrete or grass. Since a frame tent does not have any center poles inside of the tent, one does not have to worry about trying to work around the poles in the tent.

The tent is held down with several weights, either water barrels or concrete blocks. these are an additional coast to the tent.

One drawback in regard to the frame tent is that it is usually a bit more pricey to rent than a pole tent. due to the labor involved in setting up the tent, as well as the cost of actually purchasing the tent and the weights. The side poles are typically 7ft. tall. Sidewalls do not automatically come with the tent and are a separate fee. Prices include installation & tear down.

Our FRAME tent sizes range from a 10'x10' to 40'x120'

See the guide on page # to find which size tent your event will require!
